

A diagram consisting of five horizontal white bars of equal length, stacked vertically. The bars are centered horizontally and have rounded ends. They are set against a light gray background. The bars are arranged in a column, with a small gap between each bar. The overall shape is rectangular, with the bars filling most of the vertical space.

A diagram consisting of a vertical stack of five identical white rounded rectangles on a gray background. Below this stack, centered horizontally, is a single white rounded rectangle. The rectangles are arranged in a column, with the bottom-most rectangle being the only one centered horizontally relative to the overall width of the stack above it.

